Elliott County is Kentucky's 114th county. It was created by an act of the Kentucky General Assembly on January 1869, and approved by Governor John W. Stevenson. Elliott County was formed on April 1, 1869 from portions of Morgan, Carter and Lawrence counties.

Elliott County is located in the Northeastern section of the state known as the coal field area of the Eastern Mountains. The Little Sandy River flows northward through the center of the county with numerous tributaries. It is surrounded by the counties of Morgan, Lawrence, Carter and Rowan.

The county received its name in honor of Judge John M. Elliott formerly a member of the Confederate Congress from Kentucky. He was assassinated by Thomas Buford on April 1, 1879, on the streets of Frankfort. At the time of his death he was a Justice of the Court of Appeals which was then in session at the Capitol.

On April 5, 1869 a county seat was established at Martinsburg, on an acre plot, contributed by the county's first Judge, James K. Hunter, for the purpose of a courthouse and public square. A committee was then formed for the purpose of dividing the county into voting districts. The precincts were as follows:

- Number 1 precinct - Martinsburg
- Number 2 precinct - North Fork
- Number 3 precinct - Newcombe
- Number 4 precinct - Little Fork
- Number 5 precinct - Moccasin

On May 25, 1869, the first session of court was conducted. J. K. Hunter presided over the court convened at his mill on the Little Sandy River. The first county officials were as follows:

1. J. K. Hunter -County Judge
2. James W. Hannah -County Attorney
3. James G. Whitt -County Clerk
4. Henry D. Porter -County Sheriff
5. Joel Kegley -County Jailer
6. William T. Mobley-County Surveyor
7. A. J. Crisp -County Assessor
8. Huston King -Circuit Court Clerk
9. M. J. Ferguson -Circuit Judge

The first Commissioner of Education appointed in 1869 was J. K. Howard. The County Commissioner was in charge of the County School System and its operation. In 1887 the County Commissioner was abolished and the office of Superintendent of Schools established. John H. Flannery, a teacher, was Elliott County's first Superintendent of Schools, 1887-1890.

When Elliott County was formed the population was 4,433, which included 4,411 whites, and 22 colored. The population of Elliott County came to its peak around 1900, and has gradually decreased due to heavy migration for employment opportunities to industrial cities. The rise and fall of Elliott County's population is as follows:

1870 - 4,433	1920 - 8,887
1880 - 6,567	1940 - 8,713
1890 - 9,214	1950 - 7,085
1900 -10,387	1960 - 6,330
1910 - 9,814	1970 - 5,933

As the county grew more services were needed to accommodate the people. In 1874 Elliott County had three post offices to serve the people at the Bruin, Newfoundland, and Sandy Hook communities. In December, 1926 the first bank was opened in Sandy Hook. Since Sandy Hook was without electricity a Delco Plant supplied the bank with dim lights. The bank installed one of the two phones which the town had. As health care became a growing concern a Health Unit was established in 1929.

Dr. Sylvester Hunter, Sr. and Dr. W. W. Johnson were among the first doctors to serve the county. With farming the lively hood of Elliott Countians the Agricultural Extension Service was established in 1929 to aid in the improvement of better farming methods. Since then the agricultural situation has shown improvements with increases in crop yields.

Elliott County is continuing to make more advancements in many areas today. Meeting the educational needs of the people of Elliott County continues to be very important. Education has progressed within the county through better schools and more highly trained educational personnel. Added to the county's educational advancements will be a new vocational school which is now under construction.

Health care has advanced from the day of the mid-wife to a new Health Center and Health Clinic in Sandy Hook. The county has many other health care services available with several doctors which serve the citizens.

Housing in Elliott County has moved forward. Many new homes have been built and many more are under construction through the county. The Eastwood Apartments in Sandy Hook provide homes for over people. Playgrounds, laundry facilities, and alarm system make the new apartments a welcome addition to the county.

Transportation is now available in the county for those who need it. The extraction of minerals from the county have made it necessary for road improvements. Road construction is underway throughout the county. Roads are being resurfaced, bridges built and many other improvements made.

Over the years Elliott County has been the center of mining and drilling activities. A large amount of coal tonage has been extracted from strip mining across the county. While a large number of gas and oil wells have been drilled over the years by various companies and individuals evidence of mineral extraction is apparent across the approximate 153,600 acres of Elliott County territory.

Being a native Elliott Countian no research is needed to describe its picturesque beauty. Although the county has changed down through the years, from the days my great grandfather rode horseback as the only means of transportation, it still has a lot to offer to anyone interested in the beauty of nature. Much of the Little Sandy River and its tributaries are enclosed by cannon walls, within these cannon walls there are many natural formations. Just outside Sandy Hook are the popular Indian Caves which extend down through Laural, the county's favorite fishing grounds.

The legendary Swift Silver Mines are located just northeast of Sandy Hook. There are excavations made by early prospectors hunting for the silver. The well known diamond fields are located at Little Fork. These formations have drawn a lot of attention to view the beautiful colored stones.

The home of an old tribe of Indians is said to be located north of Sandy Hook at the Big Caney Creek where people spend a lot of time looking for Indian relics.

If visiting the Indian Caves, fishing on Laural, or looking for precious stones doesn't appeal to you then the natural beauty and hospitality of Elliott County and its citizens will.

MORGAN, ELLIOTT AND MENIFEE COUNTIES INTERESTED OILMEN
KENTUCKY YESTERDAYS
by Stuart Sprague
Morehead State University

An 1865 pamphlet simply titled Eastern Kentucky touted the oil lands of Eastern Kentucky. "Not only were oil springs and other striking surface indications everywhere abundant through Johnson, Morgan, Magoffin and the adjacent counties," but also "upon many tracts in Morgan county the cannel coal is of the first quality and veins three to four feet thick are accessible." One third of the tracts offered for sale by the author of the pamphlet were in Morgan.

Nonetheless, it appears that it was not until about 1902 that interest in Morgan picked up. At that time the Pebble Land Oil & Gas Company, which had 32,000 acres under lease, brought in "the best gas well in the Morgan County Field on Elk Fork" and followed that up with a strike in the center of West Liberty. The President of the company had been the pioneer proprietor in the Ragland field of Bath/Rowan/Meniffee counties, where oil was struck in the Year of the Century [1900]. The Secretary of the corporation was the postmaster of Mount Sterling, Ben W. Hall.

In late 1912 there was even better news as the Cannel City Pool was discovered. As the Kentucky Geological Survey put it:

In Morgan County a producing well was drilled about eight months ago at Cannel City.... The estimated initial production was placed at from 400 to 500 barrels per day. The well was later on cleaned out and drilled deeper, shot and put to pumping. After eight months it is reported as now pumping sixty five barrels a day.

Statewide, interest in Kentucky oil and gas peaked about 1919. In that year both the Morris Development Company and the Triangle Oil Company had rigs working on the "Shuttleworth Tract." In addition the Triangle Oil & Fuel Company moved a rig on to a portion of the Clearfield Lumber Company's 5000 acre tract. The following list of companies active in Morgan County was extracted from the 1919

Kentucky Oil Directory:

By 1920 state geologist W.R. Jillson could remark that the Cannel City Pool that in 1913 had produced 12,000 barrels a month was now "historic." He declared that "Morgan County contains the one-time famous Cannel City oil pool, which was drilled in with gusher production from a few wells in 1912." There was still hope, however, as "near West Libery,... considerable gas has been found and much prospecting is going forward now."

Menifee County contained the Menifee gas field which went into production in 1901, which according to Jillson (1920) "has been extensively drilled" and in 1920 while gas production was declining was "used by the Central Kentucky Natural Gas Company as a resevoir supply field for the cities of Mount Sterling, Winchester, Lexington, Versailles, Midway and Frankfort." The 1919 Kentucky Oil Directory listed four firms as active in Menifee: The Duquesne Oil Company of Louisville, the Kentucky Coal & Oil Company of Lexington, and two companies out of Salt Lick, namely the Kentucky Crude Oil Company and the Midland Oil Company. That this is an incomplete listing is obvious since Lexington Herald accounts in 1919 speak of the activities of the Premier Oil & Gas Company of Pennsylvania and the New Domain Oil & Gas Company in the county, and of Senator Hale, the California Capitalist, sinking a well.

Elliott County was summarized by Jillson in 1920 ^{when he declared} ~~by declaring~~ that "a number of wells have been drilled ... Several of the wells have produced gas in a large quantity, and a few, producing oil in small quantity have been found."

Interestingly enough, on the heels of the Arab Oil Embargo of late 1973, there has been renewed interest in Appalachian oil and gas. In 1974 a 40-50 barrel a day well came in near Adele, Morgan County, and in Elliott County the Florida Drilling & Producing Company resumed operations near Sandy Hook. In 1977, Fyffe Brothers out of Isonville drilled a 5 1/2 and a 10 barrel a day producer. In one sense of the word the history of Eastern Kentucky oil dates back more than a hundred years and ^{perhaps} ~~hopefully~~ is not at an end. Perhaps some enterprising reader will dig through deed and lease books at the court house and interview some of the individuals who contributed to the history of oil exploration and exploitation of their county. The above account is at best somewhat sketchy.
